A Splash of Water

A beautiful addition to any backyard, Wild Bird Center's bird-baths are sure to bring sweet birdsongs and color to your yard. A birdbath is an integral part of any backyard bird feeding set-up. While birdseed attracts seed-eating birds, birdbaths will attract even more species. All birds need to wash and drink in clean, clear water. Be sure to look for baths that are somewhat shallow as birds like to ease themselves into the water. To attract even more birds, try installing a dripper in your birdbath as birds have different tastes when it comes to cleaning—some prefer baths while other prefer light showers. The sound of a dripper will attract more species to your yard than a bath alone. Watch as your feathered friends splish and splash in their private backyard oasis and reward you with entertainment all summer long.

The Water Wiggler is an innovative and simple way to add some "action" to your birdbath. Moving water is a magnet for backyard birds, and with the Water Wiggler it's easier than ever to entice a visit from your feathered friends.
